FBI seizes gaming devices from Kiln VFW

BY LIZ HAAS

Gaming devices were confiscated from the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 6285 in Kiln Monday as part of a state-wide raid on suspected illegal gambling operations.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation executed a search warrant on the post and seized control of operations while conducting a search for the evidence.

The post keys were returned to an employee after the gaming devices were recovered. No arrests were made, according to Tom Montgomery, FBI Supervisory Special Agent.

"I really cannot talk about the case because this is a pending investigation and we have sealed the affidavit," said Montgomery.

Montgomery said the FBI will report their finding to the United States District Court and the U.S. Attorney's office, and they will make a decision of what further investigation is necessary, if any.

"As far as we're concerned, there is no change in the status of the club's standing because we have not been contacted by the FBI or the attorney general's office to verify to us that this actually did happen," said Nancy McGraw, secretary at the VFW headquarters in Jackson.

"It's put us in a bad position because all we have is rumors—no concrete information—and we do not have any authority to do anything until we can see some charges," said McGraw.

Attempts to contact VFW Post 6285 commander, Paul Moody, for comments were unsuccessful.

Raids were also made in Harrison County at a VFW club and a store in Woolmarket by the FBI and attorney general's White Collar Crime Unit, but no gaming devices were found.

Drug need reason for bank robbery

BY LIZ HAAS

Michael E. Wilkins, arrested for the Hancock Bank robbery on Highway 90 Monday, told the Bay police he needed the money for drugs, according to Police Chief Frank McNeil.

He reported, Wilkins, 39, of Bay St. Louis, handed a bank teller a note, stating he had a gun and to give him all the money.

Wilkins then darted out a side door with the money and went to an area on north Carroll Avenue to hide.

"He implied to the teller, he had a gun, but he never showed a weapon, and none was found," McNeil stated. "Wilkins told us he did not have one."

"He figured he could get away quickly because he had a place to hide in the woods," said McNeil. "He told us that he was living in the woods."

After he robbed the bank, Wilkins hid the money and threw away the clothes he was wearing, sunglasses, a jacket and cap.

McNeil continued, "He hid the money under some pine straw behind a shed in the woods."

The police responded to the call at 9:44 a.m. and within 11 minutes had Wilkins in custody.

McNeil stated all of the stolen money was found by 10:25 a.m. along with the clothing.

Wilkins is in the Hancock County Justice Facility under a $50,000 bond.

Compretta questions bill on wastewater disposal systems

BY LIZ HAAS

State Representative J.P. Compretta is questioning the constitutionality of a 1992 Mississippi Senate bill regarding wastewater disposal systems on the basis of a U.S. Supreme Court case in South Carolina.

He has requested an official opinion from State Attorney General Mike Moore on the matter.

The 1992 state law has had the effect of prohibiting homeowners from discharging sewage wastewater off their property. The soil is saturated in parts of southern Hancock County, which leaves many property owners without a legal way to flush their toilets, Compretta contends.

In addition, it requires wastewater disposal systems to be located certain minimum distances from dwellings, property lines, potable water sources and most waterways. Most of the lots in southern Hancock County are too small to meet this requirement.

Also, when property is sold, the lender generally will require an acceptable wastewater disposal system on the property; so, the lender will require the purchaser to obtain health department approval of the disposal system before lending money for purchase of the property.

"For these reasons, many homeowners in southern Hancock County are unable to sell their property, and many property lots are unable to be developed for residential purposes and other purposes because the health department could not approve wastewater disposal systems for that property," said Compretta in his letter to Moore.

"The requirements imposed by the bill and the health department regulations deny the affected property owners all economically beneficial use of their land and that because of this, the bill and regulations cause an effectual 'taking' of their property that requires the state of Mississippi to pay them 'just compensation' as provided under the fifth and fourteenth amendments to the U.S. Constitution."

"The bill and health department regulations effectively destroy the value of those homeowners' property and destroy the value of investments made by individuals and builders who have purchased lots in subdivisions for future use, development or sale."

The challenge continues

Kiln Fire Department adds responsibility of Stennis Airport

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Kiln Fire Department volunteers sat last week in the dark of the new Stennis Airport passenger terminal watching a film about a make-believe airplane crash.

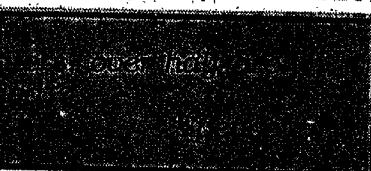

The film showed a section of a passenger plane where make-believe victims, covered in make-believe blood screamed in make-believe agony.

It showed real-life firefighters, medical personnel, and law enforcement officers working in a joint effort to most effectively assist in the event of a real-life disaster.

The men and women viewing the film sat somberly as they watched the various entities come together in a joint rescue action.

Class instructor and NASA/John C. Stennis Space Center Fire Department chief Jim Webber reported, the Kiln Fire Department along with neighboring fire, medical and law enforcement personnel will pose a re-enactment of their own, as soon as he is able to obtain a plane shell.

Meanwhile, Webber presented scenarios of possible accidents and crashes. The firefighters divided into groups for discussion of emergency steps.

HISTORY

Kiln Fire Department captain and treasurer Bill Callahan has been a member since 1971, the first year the department was organized.

"Everyone in the Kiln was a member then," Callahan said of the first 30-40 department members.

The department started with a 1947 Dodge pumper, which later was donated to the West Hancock Volunteer Fire Department in Pearlinton.

Today the department has four trucks: a 1979 Ford pumper (750 gallons); a 1980 1-ton rescue/bush truck; a 1986 GMC tanker (2,000 gallons); and a 1969 International pumper (600 gallons).

SERVICES

According to Callahan, those were the days when structure fire were more numerous than woods fires.

"In my opinion," he commented, "structure fires reduced in number when builders quit using aluminum wiring in houses."

Kiln Fire Department chief David Alan Spence interjected, "Along with education of the public."

Spence, who has been with the Kiln department for 11 years, included education of the public along with better trained firemen as reasons for structure fire reductions.

"Once a year we go to the schools and teach fire prevention as well as familiarize the children with fire fighting equipment."

"A small child looks at a fireman in full turnout gear and mask and thinks he is something from Mars."

"It is important that children know the sound and look of the fireman so they will come to him

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's February Morning Edition will be 7:30 a.m. at Casino Magic in Bay St. Louis.

Mississippi Public Service Commissioner Curt Herbert Jr. is the special speaker for the Morning Edition. Hebert is to speak on the role of the Public Service Commissioner's office.

The meeting will be in the second floor lobby of Casino Magic and is open to chamber members and the general public.

I hope to see you at the Morning Edition.

I received a telephone call from a Jourdan River Shores resident Wednesday morning who was rather upset and had reason to be.

She reported that on Mardi Gras night, as her daughter was turning into her property from Highway 603, a vehicle passed and tossed a large bag of garbage out.

Needless to say, when it struck the highway it burst, and the lady said her fence line is a sight for sore eyes.

Come on folks, we in Hancock County are striving for a Litter Free '93 campaign, and this sure doesn't help us reach this goal.

Too bad it was dark and the license tag could not be seen, as the number could have been turned into the Anti-Litter Hotline.

By the way, the Anti-Litter Hotline for Bay St. Louis is 255-6234 and 255-6246 for the county.

These numbers are to report litter violations. All is needed is a tag number, the time of day, and the area of the violation. You do not need to identify yourself.

A letter will be sent to an alleged violator.

We need the help of everyone to combat litter in Hancock County.

There are always new things happening with Mardi Gras parades, and nothing is really a surprise.

I saw for the first time in a parade Sunday the launching of a rocket. This was at the Diamondhead Sea parade. In case the spectators missed the launch, a second one followed.

In reviewing the parades this past Mardi Gras season, I would have to say we have been very lucky with the weather.

There were a few threats of rain, but that is all that it was.

We could not have asked for better weather for Tuesday. To run about in February in short sleeves makes us the envy of many in our nation.

Thanks to each and everyone for contributions to Mardi Gras.

In time for the Lenten season, St. Clare School will have three Friday Seafood Dinner benefits.

Tom Longo, chairman, reports the first will be held this Friday from 5-7:30 p.m. in the school's cafeteria, South Beach Boulevard, Waveland.

You can get your choice of fish, oyster or shrimp dinners and also po-boys.

The dinners are for a donation of $5 a plate and $4 per po-boy.

The dinners come with potato salad, green beans and bread.

The next dinners will be March 12 and 26.

I hope to see you at the dinner Friday night.

Just when you thought all of the parades were over with, well, there's good news.

In just a couple weeks, on Saturday, March 13, the annual Waveland Civic Association's St. Patrick's Day parade is scheduled to roll through the streets of Waveland.

Jay Lagasse is the parade chairman, and he reports the organization is seeking entries floats, trucks, cars, bicycles, marching groups, etc.

There is an entry form on page 3-A of this issue of The Echo.

This will be the Waveland Civic Association's 29th parade, and some 70 or so units are expected.

You can also pick up entry forms at John Mason's Firestone, Highway 90 at Bouslog, Bay St. Louis, or call Lagasse at 467-7400 for further information.

Deadline is noon on March 10 to place an entry. The parade day is a time when all the folks can add the letter 'O' to their names and change their nationality.

The parade is set to start at 2 p.m. and will form at Waveland Avenue by the park. It will proceed down Central to Coleman Avenue, Coleman to the Beach, Beach to Lafitte, Lafitte to Central and Central to the Terrace to disband.

Lagasse reports there will be cups, cabbages, beads and other throws from the St. Patrick's festivities.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Resident concerned about jail time served by Cuban detainees

To the Editor:

Lately there has been quite a bit of publicity about the Cuban immigration detainees in the local (Hancock County) jail.

Those of us concerned about their detention are most grateful to Mr. Peterson, Mr. Nease, Mr. Fayard and all of the jail staff for their humane treatment of the Cubans and for their cooperation in letting us minister to them.

However, the fact remains that these people are held by Immigration. Many of them are still held years after they have completed their sentences.

They have no idea when, if ever, they will be getting out. They have wives, children and even grandchildren waiting for them. These family members cannot visit them because of the expense, distance and time involved.

The cost to the taxpayers of keeping these men behind bars is astronomical.

We are aware that the local press has written about this before, but many people either never read about it or have forgotten. Also, we have newcomers to the community and they should know about it.

The Cubans want to believe that if they improve themselves, they will be released, but since release is mighty slow in coming, they lose their faith in those who hold their fate in their hands.

Reader feels number of casinos in county should be limited

To the Editor:

I am from Bay St. Louis, a small town on the Gulf Coast, and I really enjoy living in Bay St. Louis. Here in the Bay we don't have the gangs and violence that come with big cities, just peaceful, easy living. Few scary or exciting things ever happen around here, and we like it that way.

There is one problem though, the economy. Bay St. Louis's main area of commerce is tourism. The Bay has been a resort area for decades. In the past our sandy beaches and peaceful atmosphere have been big attractions to people from the New Orleans area, but our tourism business has slacked off a great deal. The decline of tourism in Bay St. Louis has hurt the economy; we had to do something to get those Louisiana dollars rolling back in and to help employ the 1,150 people unemployed in Hancock County.

Bay St. Louis, along with the rest of Hancock County, voted for dockside casino gambling to help the economic state of the Gulf Coast. So far, the casinos on the Coast are doing very well. Many tourists are coming from nearby Alabama and Louisiana to try their luck in our casinos.

The four casinos already in operation on the Coast have employed a large number of people, and the tourists are rolling in. The casino here in Bay St. Louis, Casino Magic, has employed over 1,500 people; the parking lots are always packed full and the dollars are definitely rolling in. As we anticipated, business has picked up in Hancock and other coastal counties.

Still, there are negative aspects to the casino industry on the Gulf Coast. My first fear is that too many casinos will come to the Gulf Coast, employ people, and then put each other out of business. If the novelty of the casinos on the Coast eventually wears off, an overabundance of casinos may occur. This is just speculation, though.

My main concern involving the casinos has more to do with the type of towns located in this area. Hancock County, especially, is small and comfortable. If anyone around here wanted big city life, they would have moved a long time ago. We Hancock County residents are accustomed to our way of life. We voted for dockside casino gambling to improve our economy, not to change our home. We do not intend to become another Las Vegas.

I strongly feel that the legislature should give the power to limit the number of casinos in each county to the counties. They could do this by giving the board of supervisors in each county the power to initiate a referendum which will allow the county the right to vote to limit the number of casinos in that county.

The residents of each county know what suits them best. I am not against casinos. In fact, I have only seen good things come from Casino Magic in Bay St. Louis. It is definitely what we needed to attract tourists. I just don't want to see Bay St. Louis become the Bay of Las Vegas.

FROM THE SENATE

By Senator
Trent Lott

A question of health

In another controversial, non-economic proposal, President Clinton and his HHS Secretary Donna Shalala, have announced plans to lift the ban on immigration by people infected with the HIV virus and AIDS.

I strongly oppose lifting this ban. President Clinton likes to say that he was elected to bring change, but this is definitely the wrong kind of change to make and it's not in the best interest of the public.

Lifting this ban could lead to the further spread of a deadly communicable disease and would add to the already tremendous burden that AIDS places on the U.S. health care system.

Therefore, I have cosponsored an amendment with Senator Don Nickles of Oklahoma that would codify the existing policy that excludes immigration of people who are HIV positive. The amendment defines HIV as "communicable disease of public health significance."

Our amendment passed in the Senate by a 76-23 vote and is now part of NIH Reauthorization. Its approval clearly shows that continuing this ban and making it law has strong bipartisan support. I believe that the Senate's vote for this amendment shows good common sense and the president should listen to it.

The very idea of trying to let immigrants with AIDS enter this country should make us ask ourselves common sense.

questions. Would lifting the ban be a public health benefit? Would it help contain the spread of a tragic and incurable disease? Would it help the U.S. health care system? and repeatedly the answer is "no."

The American Medical Association, the body most knowledgeable and experienced on the subject of AIDS, supports the current policy reflected in the Nickles Amendment. That alone is good enough for me, but there are many other reasons.

Those reasons are clear. It is sound and it protects the public health, contains the spread of a tragic disease and prevents a further burdening of the U.S. health care system.

The current policy, which was instituted by President Bush in 1990, does allow exceptions for special and unusual circumstances. The Immigration and Naturalization Service has waived the immigration ban in 76 hardship cases, such as when one member of a large family was infected. INS has denied 48 other requests and has about 120 requests pending from last fall.

Banning immigration by people with AIDS and other communicable diseases is not a question of discrimination, it is a question of health and what is best for America.

Senator Lott welcomes any questions and/or comments about this column. Please write to: U.S. Senator Trent Lott, 487 Russell Building, Washington, D.C. 20510 (c/o Press Office).

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

From the Mississippi
Economic Council

M/E/C

Voters deserve options

One of the most far-reaching pieces of legislation during the 1993 session was crushed to death by 29 senators on a deadline day.

The resolution would have amended the Mississippi Constitution to allow voters to decide whether they wanted to change their form of county government.

Under the 1890 Constitution, Mississippians have no choice in determining how their county government is structured. This contrasts with voters in cities who have flexibility in choosing the organizational framework of municipal government.

Several options are available to the voters for municipal government: mayor and board of aldermen, commission, council, mayor and council, council and manager.

However, such options are not available to voters on the county level.

As Mississippi approaches the 21st century, Mississippians should have the opportunity to bring county government out of the 19th century.

The resolution was defeated in the Senate by a 23-29 vote. Perhaps, before the 1994 legislative session gets under way, the message can get out to those senators who voted "No."

It's time for the people to be allowed to choose the structure of their county government.

STREET TALK

What are your thoughts concerning the proposal to move the Social Security retirement age up?

"I don't think they should do that, even though there are some people 65 who can work, there are many who cannot work, and those people deserve to get the benefits."

Michelle Kimmel
Pass Christian

"I don't think they ought to raise it, because people even at 60, I think, are getting to the age when they want to retire and they don't want to wait seven more years. Some people don't live past 60 and they never get to draw a dime of their Social Security."

Linda Rich
Waveland

"I think that is the wisest thing they could do. People are living much longer today, and besides it might also give us additional monies to fund Social Security."

Aimee Grego
Bay St. Louis

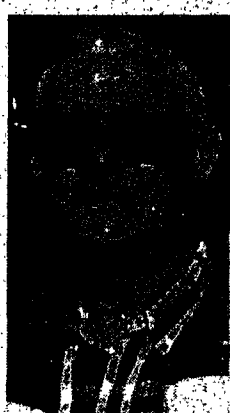

"It's depressing to think all your life you struggle to enjoy retirement. Why penalize the old?"

Julia Brammer
Pass Christian

"I think it's great for those who want to work. There are many people who are active at that age and can contribute a great deal. For those who don't want to work, I think it should be optional."

Darlene Green
Waveland

Teddy Reed
Bay St. Louis

"I don't think it's a good idea. What happens is when people retire it gives the younger people an opportunity to move up. By moving up the age it will eliminate that opportunity for those retired positions."

the bill, which denies a property owner all economically beneficial use of his land effects a taking that requires the state to pay compensation to the owner, unless the regulation is just making explicit the restrictions that already are placed upon ownership of the land by background principles of the state's law of property and nuisance."

In that case, the court said one way to avoid paying compensation was to rescind its regulation.

Compretta questioned if the bill and regulations by the health department cause an effectual taking of the property, which requires the state to pay compensation to the owners and could the state avoid having to pay compensation if it provided exceptions to the requirements of the Senate bill and health department regulations through legislation.

State Representatives Compretta and Harry Frierson joined in introducing a bill in January to the legislative session in an effort to provide temporary relief from the bill, but it died in early February.

The proposed legislation was rejected by the Public Health and Welfare Committee, but both lawmakers have continued efforts to try and help property owners in the affected areas of the county.

Reading class offered in Waveland

Do you want to be a better reader?

You can be. Come to the Waveland Library or call 467-9240 for information.

A reading class will begin March 1. Call soon so you can sign up.

The bill prepared by Compretta and Frierson would have allowed the discharge of wastewater off the owner's property if the discharge meets certain conditions. The measure, which applied only to Hancock County, would have been in effect until the county had installed a central sewer system in the affected area.

"We've been meeting with the Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) and they have told us that they and the Board of Health would work with us on the matter," said Compretta.

The DEQ has available low interest loans for 100% of eligible project costs to assist public entities with the construction of sewers in unsewered areas.

There are also other sources of funds, including combinations of loan and grant funds from other agencies.

"It is now up to the board of supervisors to move forward," said Frierson.

"We're working on trying to get the county to move on and get sewerage in that area," said Compretta. "The ball is in the court of the board of supervisors to get moving forward as fast as they can."

Mike Ladner, president of the board of supervisors said, "We've got everything updated and have been on top of things and have talked to all of our representatives and it's going to take some $20 million to do this."

"We know what needs to be done; it's a matter of finding the money, and as soon as we can do that we will go forward," the Hancock County supervisor president said.

"Our next step is to go to Washington and try to find some money, and we are waiting now for appointment dates to go there to discuss the situation with our leaders," said Ladner.

Mississippi Power ups cost

Mississippi Power Company customers will see an increase in the cost of electricity because of higher fuel costs, according to a fuel adjustment clause filing with the state Public Service Commission.

Beginning in April, residential customers will see the cost of 1,000 kilowatt-hours of electricity increase from $60.19 to $60.97 or a 78 cent adjustment.

The PSC audits and approves the fuel component of electric bills. The fuel adjustment clause focuses on a number of economic factors including fuel costs, fuel transportation costs, and sales of electricity. The fuel adjustment clause increases or decreases every six months to reflect these factors.

In the fuel adjustment clause filing in April 1992, costs to customers were reduced by $3.24 a month based on usage of 1,000 kilowatt-hours. Overall, the company has been able to reduce fuel costs in eight of the past nine years.

"Fuel costs are the largest expenditure in the generation of electricity, and by law they are passed directly to the customer," said Ed Blakeslee, vice president, customer services and marketing.

"Over the years we have benefited from improved efficiency, new coal contracts, and lower transportation costs. This filing reflects high electricity use in the hottest summer months as well as the unavailability of additional savings at this time."

The next fuel adjustment clause filing will be in September.

Even with the increase, Mississippi Power's cost of $60.97 for 1,000 kilowatt-hours of electricity is more than 28 percent less than the national average of $85.12. In a January survey of 60 utilities nationwide, Mississippi power's rates were lower than 55 other utilities.

Mississippi Power serves more than 179,000 customers in 23 counties in southeast Mississippi. Mississippi Power is a member of The Southern Company, which serves more than 11 million people in the southeastern United States.

Gulf Coast Women's Center needs volunteers

The Gulf Coast Women's Center is in need of volunteers. The center, an agency member of the United Ways of South Mississippi, provides temporary shelter for battered women and their children and assists women who have been sexually assaulted.

When a woman is a victim of rape or domestic violence, she needs help right away. This help is provided through a 24-hour crisis line which is staffed by volunteers.

Although covering the crisis line is the primary way volunteers help, volunteers who are unable to do this kind of work can be used in other ways, since the center provides a number of important services to those it serves. Staff and volunteers work together to provide the needed assistance.

Volunteers who work on the crisis line usually serve on the line one week a month and are required to work only in the county in which they live. They receive calls in their homes during the evening hours and weekends, and are provided with a pager so they can continue their regular routine during their week of service and be contacted if they are needed.

The main requirement for being a crisis line volunteer is to realize the seriousness of the situation and to make a commitment to the program. Volunteers must be compassionate, non-judgmental people who are good listeners.

Prospective volunteers are provided with two full days of certified training to prepare them for this important work. The training will take place later in the Spring. Anyone interested in volunteering, please contact Augusta Toomer at 435-1968.

Chamber Education Committee meeting set this evening

"The meeting is open to the general public, and those wishing to attend are asked to call the chamber at 467-9048," Fernandez added.

Gulf Islands the topic of Sierra Club workshop

A group of European adventurers who had traveled the world looking for the excitement and beauty of raw and uncivilized nature reported that the greatest trip of their lives was the several days spent backpacking on Horn Island during a storm.

East Ship, Horn and Petit Bois island, just 10 miles off our Mississippi Coast, are among the last of the undeveloped islands of our seashore.

Now preserved as part of the Gulf Islands National Seashore, they are, nevertheless, under constant threat by the long arms of "development."

Mark Lewis, district ranger for the Gulf Islands National Seashore, will present a program and slide show on the Gulf Islands Thursday, Feb. 25 at 7:30 p.m. in the Marine Education Center at Point Cadet in Biloxi at the west end of the Biloxi-Ocean Springs bridge. The talk is limited to this free presentation.

The program is sponsored by the Gulf Coast Chapter of the Sierra Club. For more information please call 435-2623.

Girl Scout cookies have arrived in Bay St. Louis

More than 1,600 cases of cookies arrived in the Bay St. Louis area this week. Girl Scouts will be delivering orders and setting up booth sales throughout Hancock County.

Seven different varieties of cookies are available and sell for $2.50 per box. The cookie sale ends March 6.

The sale is the principle source of income for many Girl Scout troops. Girls in troops make plans for trips, community projects, equipment and troop supplies and other activities, estimate a budget to accomplish their goals, then determine the quantity cookies they need to sell.

"Along with these important skills of planning and budgeting, girls develop responsible attitudes and gain self confidence through their participation in the cookie sale," said spokesman Stevie McCain.

The cookie sale is also an important source of income for the Gulf Pines Girl Scout Council. Proceeds help provide programs and direct services to more than 11,000 Girl Scout members annually in south Mississippi's 15 counties.

To buy Girl Scout cookies, call the Girl Scout "cookie volunteer" for Hancock County, 533-7956 after 5 p.m.

Women's Club sets fundraiser

The Hancock Women's Club will host a Fun and Games Day at 11 a.m. Thursday, Feb. 25 at the VFW Hall.

Lunch consisting of donated sandwiches, sweets, and drinks will be sold. White elephant bingo will be the game.

All attendees, including guests, are asked to bring one or two articles wrapped in newspaper to serve as bingo prizes.

This is a real fund-raiser for the club since none of the money collected goes out as prizes, and there is much fun involved as winners open the prizes they have selected to show the group.

By Margaret Williamson

ANTI LITTER

The Beautification Committee, sponsored by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce is urging all county residents to assist in their anti-litter program. Have some pride, and stop before you litter your street, block and highways.

Bob Valigorsky needs volunteers in Diamondhead and the surrounding areas to help in keeping our "Paradise" beautiful and clean. If you see anyone littering, you need not identify yourself, just get license number, location, and the name and address if you can, and call the hotline at 255-6234.

March 24 is the date for the annual Pilgrimage of the Mississippi Coast and Diamondhead homes, and everyone needs to make a special effort to clean up everywhere for our visitors and guests. Please call Bob at 255-7198 to volunteer.

AARP

Your 1993 dues of $3 per person are now due, so no more meeting notices will be mailed until dues are paid. You may send your check to Frank Jaumot, 7549 Mahalo Hui Drive, Diamondhead 39525. The Hancock County Historical Society were treated to a very interesting meeting last Thursday, Feb. 18 at the Waveland Resort Inn.

Commander William E. Edwards of Diamondhead spoke to the group about his WW II military experiences, especially the one involving former President George Bush. I'm sure those in the audience who participated in any way and remember those war days were taken back briefly in time.

Commander Edwards, with his wife Marge, plan to visit their friends George and Barbara in Houston at a future date.

KREWE OF DIAMONDHEAD

Parade goers said, they felt right at home at the Krewe of Diamondhead's parade on Saturday, Feb. 20. The weather permitted over 30 entries to come out and join their "Greatest Show on Earth" circus theme. The efforts of all those who participated were welcomed by the throngs of folks lining the parade route.

The results of the many hours of decorating and planning for this parade paid off. Overall winner was the Krewe of Tiki for "Circus People and Animals." First place float, the Spirit of Diamondhead for "Tiger on Parade," first place walking and riding group, Jinky Underwood, "Clowns and others," first place golf carts, Marilyn Cuccia, "Amazing Trick Poodles."

Runners-up were "Circus Vendors," Carl Adams Hairworks; Diamondhead Academy's "Circus," Diamondhead Garden Club's golf cart with Girl Scout Troop 510 led by Evelyn Kibler, a great clown.

Diamondhead Canasta Club's "Balloon Babes" Mary Bates, Joan Mozely, Bernice Inerson and myself thank our driver, Peggy Haien, for her great blue Mustang showing the Mardi Gras colors and for letting us be in that number. It was great fun. Let's do it again next year, girls.

Other teachers involved in the science fair include Theresa Braud and Millie Rutledge from OLA and Fred Cherota, Robert Carrey and Evelyn Timidaiki from SSC.

IRA Headquarters

Making more with your IRA could be as easy as one ... two ... three.

Are you sure ... absolutely sure ... that your present IRA is earning the best possible rate of return?

If you'd like to find out how "healthy" your present IRA program is, please stop by my office for a free, no-obligation IRA Check-Up.

And if you decide to transfer your IRA to a higher-yielding, more flexible, professionally-managed program, I'll show you the three easy steps you'll need to follow to make the change.

It's that simple. I think the 15 minutes we'll spend together could be the most important investment you'll ever make.

Pass schools seek disabled children

The Pass Christian Public School District is participating in an ongoing statewide effort to identify, locate and evaluate children through age 21 who are physically, mentally, communicatively and/or emotionally handicapped. Dr. Lorice A. Broome is Child Find person for the district.

Once referral is made, it is the responsibility of the Child Find person to insure that the referral-to-placement process is implemented. Broome works with local survey committees at each school to implement this process.

Prior evaluation, a copy of the Parent Information Pamphlet and Procedural Safeguards are given to parents. It outlines and explains parents' and students' rights.

After parental consent for testing is obtained, a nondiscriminatory evaluation is conducted.

When a student is ruled eligible for a special education program, parents are notified. Before the student is placed, an Individualized Educational Plan (IEP) is developed for the student, and parents sign consent for placement in a special education program. All students receiving special education services are reevaluated at least every three years, and their IEPs are revised annually.

Please contact Dr. Lorice A. Broome if you know of any individuals who need to be referred: Pass Christian Public School District, 701 West North Street, Pass Christian, MS 39571 (601) 452-7271.
